TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

In the month of March, 1988, I had the opportunity to meet in person MYRNA EL-AKIBAS NAZZOUR, of whom I had heard and read; she was visiting Dr. & Mrs. Antoine Mansour in Los Angeles, California.

My acquaintance with her left me with a vivid impression:

1. I saw with my own eyes how a replica of Our Lady called "SOUFANIA" dripped an oily substance, enough to fill up a small cup. I touched also that same oily substance coming out of the palms of Myrna's two hands as if it were a heavy perspiration.
2. The young lady herself, probably more than anything else, gives an impression diametrically opposed to any sense of fraud or intention to mislead. She perfectly lived her Catholic faith, receiving Communion every Sunday in church; she seemed as if she were taken by a far distant truth of our Christian faith. Kind and gracious, she radiates innocence and lifts up her audience to a better life.

In my humble opinion, the Case of MYRNA can be given serious consideration.
